2,500 Ohioans Observe Ike's 3rd Anniversary

Speak With Pride Of His Record, Hope He'll Run Again

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pride and anxiety were in abundance at two "Salute to Eisenhower" dinners here last night—pride over the President's accomplishments and anxiety over whether he will decide to seek re-election.

Some 2,500 Ohio Republicans attended $100-a-plate dinners held simultaneously at the Masonic Hall and Hotel Carter in observance of the third anniversary of the President's inauguration.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, who gave the main address, and other speakers were shuttled between the dinners in airport limousines.

The dinners were among the 54 held throughout the country to raise funds for this year's Republican campaign.

Halleck told the diners he thought the President would seek a second term.

"The President is alert and active," the Congressman said. "He is full of bounce and sparkle."

He added that Eisenhower would make his ultimate decision on the basis of what he thought was best for America.

"I only hope that his deep humility will not lead him to underestimate the vital importance of his leadership," Halleck said.

The Eisenhower administration, he continued, has restored "thrift, diligence, self-reliance and the old do-it-yourself spirit" to government.

"We wouldn't expect them to admit it," Halleck asserted, "but the Democrats know deep down in their hearts that another four years of Dwight D. Eisenhower in the White House would be the best thing that could happen to the country and to the cause of world peace."

Assailing democratic criticism of Secretary of State Dulles' recent "brink of war" remarks, Halleck declared:

"I would rather have an administration that saves us from the abyss of war than one that pushes us over the precipice. So would every right-thinking American."

Others speaking briefly included U. S. Sen. George H. Bender of Ohio, Reps. Frances P. Bolton, William E. Minshall and William A. Ayres of Ohio, and Courtney Burton, chairman of the state Republican Finance Committee.

3-Month Pike Tolls Total $2,661,357

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Tolls of $2,661,357 were collected from passenger cars and trucks traveling the Ohio Turnpike during the last three months of 1955, the turnpike commission reported today. The toll road opened Oct. 1.

Of the total, tolls from passenger cars were listed at $1,809,146.74 and tolls from trucks at $852,210.31.

At the monthly meeting of the commission here yesterday, members were told that passenger car travel on the turnpike has fallen off due to winter travel conditions, but that truck travel is showing a gradual increase.

Commission Chairman James W. Shocknessy, however, said the turnpike finally will be proved a financial success when passenger traffic goes into its normal increase next summer.

Convicted Slayer Gets Stay Of Execution

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A stay of execution for the murderer of a California housewife in an Oklahoma City motel Jan. 10, 1954, was granted by the state Supreme Court.

The 45-year-old Jack of all trades was to go to the electric chair Tuesday. His stay, granted by the state Criminal Court of Appeals, will be good pending legal review of the case.

Loel was convicted here last October of stabbing to death Mrs. Elizabeth Jeanne Henderson of Condon, Calif. They were on a share-the-cost trip east at the time.

Loel fled to Florida where he was arrested a year later, picked up during a routine raid on a tavern.

Four Truckers Fined

Four truckers were fined a total of $219 for overload last night by Mayor Dean B. Crammer.

Fined were: Ralph E. Cayton, 25, Weston, W. Va., $63; John L. Gallagher, 22, Roxbury, Mass., $63; James E. Moore, 36, East Liverpool, $25; and Vernon Heathcock, 37, New Castle, $68.

HUGHES AND SUCCESSOR—President Eisenhower has accepted the resignation of Rowland R. Hughes, right, as Director of the Bureau of the Budget, effective April 1. The White House said that the Chief Executive would name Percival F. Brundage, left, who has been serving as Deputy Budget Chief, as successor to Hughes. The two men are pictured as they worked on the budget recently submitted to Congress.

GOP Salutes Ike's Record

Harriman Strongly Blasts President

By The Associated Press

Republicans Friday night saluted President Eisenhower on the start of his fourth year in the White House but, in marked contrast, Democrat Averell Harriman aimed strong and direct criticism at the President.

Harriman, making a swing through California, called Eisenhower a "buck passer" and "the biggest dodger" — terms that clashed sharply with those used by GOP orators at 53 "Salute to Eisenhower" fund-raising dinners.

The New York governor seemed closer than ever to becoming an "active," rather than an "inactive," candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Eisenhower gave no such clues to his 1956 plans in his talk responding to the GOP salute. He simply promised that, either as a candidate or as a "worker in the ranks," he would fight "with all my strength" for the policies of his administration.

Republicans at the party dinners across the country, hearing Eisenhower by closed circuit television, made no secret of their hope that he'll seek a second term. They heard speakers describe him as a "symbol for peace," "the outstanding figure in the world today" and a "wise, cool" leader.

Harriman hit at Eisenhower in two Los Angeles speeches but loosed his sharpest criticism at a news conference.

"Eisenhower is the biggest dodger of any president we've ever had in my memory," he said, contending the President "passes the buck to his associates rather than take the responsibility."

Peace Theme Emphasized

Many speakers at the Eisenhower dinners emphasized the theme that Eisenhower has "kept the country out of war."

In Baltimore, former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York said:

Red Cross Goal Set At $20,018

Dr. Bruno Stanga, chairman of the Red Cross drive, announces the Salem's goal for 1956 is $20,018.

Of that sum, $13,475 will be kept here for local use. The remaining $6,543 is Salem's proportionate share in the national goal—$36,400,000—which includes an extra amount for western flood use.

The campaign will start with a "kick-off" breakfast of team leaders March 5 at 8 a.m. in the Memorial Building.

Hughes Steps Down As Ike's Budget Officer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rowland Hughes is stepping down as President Eisenhower's chief budget officer after helping pilot the government within sight of its first balanced budget since 1951.

To replace Hughes April 1, Eisenhower announced Friday he would appoint Percival F. Brundage, a former accounting executive who has been serving as deputy budget director. Brundage is from Montclair, N. J.

Just last Monday, Eisenhower told Congress he expected the budget to be in balance this fiscal year which ends June 30. He also submitted a balanced budget for the coming fiscal year as well.

Hughes cited "compelling personal and family reasons" for leaving his post. He did not say what these were.

Before joining the administration as deputy budget director nearly three years ago, Hughes was comptroller of the National City Bank of New York. It was not immediately clear whether he would return to that job.

Salvation Army Leaders Recognized

Officers were installed, the yearly report was reviewed and the retiring chairman was presented a service plaque at the quarterly dinner meeting of the Salvation Army Advisory Board yesterday at the LaPe Hotel.

A farewell to Capt. Shirley Brown, commander, and Capt. Judith Small, assistant corps officer, also was a part of the noon program. Rev. Laten Carter expressed appreciation to the officers for service and presented each a gift on behalf of the advisory board.

The officers will leave Wednesday for the Cleveland Central Area Corps and Red Shield Youth Center, where they have been assigned.

T. E. Miller was installed as new chairman for the year, and other officers are Mrs. George Bunn vice chairman; Mrs. Goldie Schwartz, secretary; and Lyman Goodballet, re-elected treasurer.

Howard E. Firestone is retiring board chairman. Other retiring officials are Stephen Gonda, vice chairman; and Mrs. Bunn, secretary.

For his three years of service as chairman of the board, Firestone was presented an engraved Salvation Army plaque by Capt.

Motorist, 24, Dies In Crash

Dale Yaggi Of Beloit Is Victim Friday Night

A 24-year-old RD 2, Beloit, driver was killed and two passengers riding in his car escaped possible serious injury in a one-car mishap on slippery pavement on Lake Park Blvd., at the intersection of Oyster Rd. between Sebring and Alliance, at 11:40 p.m. Friday.

Dead on arrival at Alliance City Hospital following the accident was Dale Yaggi, of RD 2, Beloit. Cause of death has not been determined, but Alliance hospital authorities believe Yaggi could have succumbed from injuries to his neck that had been broken just a year ago today in a similar accident on the parallel Sebring-Alliance Road.

Injured in the mishap was James Martin, 19, of 729 E. Fulton St., Alliance, a passenger in the car. Martin received lacerations of the left eye was treated at the Alliance hospital and released. Richard Wright, 23, of RD 2, Beloit, the other passenger, was unhurt.

According to the Mahoning County sheriff's office, Yaggi's car slid on icy pavement into a driveway on the side of the road and then hit a large boulder that threw the car against an embankment. The car was demolished, the sheriff's office reported.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin C. Yaggi. He was born in Knox Township, Columbiana County, Nov. 18, 1931.

A machinist's helper at the Alliance Machine Co., he was a member of Mile Branch Grange and the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion at Sebring. He spent 18 months in Korea as staff sergeant in the field artillery. He was discharged Sept. 17, 1954.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Leonard of Alliance; two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Brudery and Mrs. Donna Swallow both of RD 1, Beloit; three half-

Vacant Home Entered

A vacant residence at 1173 S. Lincoln Ave. was reported broken into last night by forcing open the rear entrance. Nothing was reported disturbed.

The theft of four car hubcaps, valued at $60 was reported to police by Mrs. John Keyser, Leetonia. Mrs. Keyser stated the theft occurred between 10 p.m. and 11 p.m., Thursday, while her car was parked beside the Salem library.

Harry Krohne, vice president and secretary of the Mullins Mfg. Corp., was named a director of the Farmers National Bank and Robert Oswald, bank comptroller, was elevated by the directors to vice president and comptroller at the bank's annual meeting Friday afternoon.

Krohne's appointment represents an increase of one on the board of directors, Pres. E. M. Stephenson said.

All other officers and directors were re-elected.

Mr. Stephenson, in his annual report, reported total operating income for 1955 of $719,237.62. After deducting $557,358.67 for expenses and taxes the bank's net earnings stood at $161,878.95 or $6.74 per share on outstanding stock, he said. During the year dividends of $2.50 per share were declared.

Mr. Stephenson added:

Deposits showed a gain of approximately one half million dollars for the year and during the period the bank opened 2,641 new deposit accounts. Additional funds were transferred to the bank's reserve accounts, he concluded.

The following directors were re-

Reports to the State Department say that the Soviet government is not telling the Russian people about these offers—Russia's newest line in its cold war efforts. The belief here is that Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev have decided it would be unwise to do so.

Secretary of State Dulles is understood to have directed the Voice of America to try to get the story across to the Russian people.

Government experts who have analyzed Russia's recently announced five-year plan say it shows that whatever wealth is exported by the Soviet government to carry out its political designs can only come out of the living standard of the Soviet people.

American authorities are never sure how much Russian public opinion may act as a brake upon Soviet policy. It is subject to rigid control and manipulation by the Moscow government except for the impact of such information as may be put into the country by Western agencies like the Voice of America.

In the present situation, however, officials believe it is significant that Soviet leaders have been soft peddling for home consumption such things as the Bulganin-Khrushchev offer of a 100-million dollar loan to Afghanistan and the offer of around 250 million dollars to Egypt to construct a dam.

Russia's five year plan, according to studies made in the government here, is designed to boost investment in plant and equipment 67 per cent over the 1955 level.

The standard of living of the people, however, is expected to move up very little. The extent to which it improves, the experts believe, will depend on whether the Soviets succeed in raising their agricultural output as planned. They have not been too successful in meeting their farm production goals in the past.

Officials have expressed doubt that Russia intends—or even will be able—to make good on many of its offers, in view of its own limited economic capacity.

Driver Hurt When Car Strikes Truck

A car driven by an Industry, Pa., man left Route 154 this morning at 1:15 and crashed into a pickup truck parked in front of the Charles Gorbey home at RD 1, Negley.

Lawrence Coudy, 21, of RD 1, Industry, was traveling east on the road 3½ miles east of Rogers and Negley when he fell asleep and the accident occurred.

State Highway patrolmen said the truck was damaged extensively and Coudy's car was demolished in the front.

Treated for lacerations of the left eye and left arm by a Lisbon physician, Coudy posted a $25 bond in the mayor's court at Lisbon after being cited for reckless driving.

Farmers Bank Names Krohne As Director, Promotes Oswald

'Other Heart' Pumps Child's Blood 11 Minutes For Surgery

CLEVELAND (AP)—Laverne Ivec's "other heart" kept her blood circulating for 11 minutes while surgeons corrected a narrow valve in her own heart.

The "other heart" is a machine which pumps blood just like a human heart. It was designed by Richard Jones, chief technician at the research laboratory in St. Luke's Hospital.

Laverne is 6 years old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Ivec, and attends Upson School in suburban Euclid.

On Wednesday, Dr. Earle Kay and Dr. Frederick Cross operated on the little girl at Charity Hospital, to widen a valve in her heart.

They had to stop its beating, so they connected her arteries and veins briefly to the mechanical heart.

She still is in an oxygen tent, but can manage a smile. She drinks milk and eats gelatine, and the doctors say she is making good progress.

It was the first time in this area that a machine has been used successfully on a human patient for an operation on the heart.

In its present form it has a capacity of a pint and a half of blood per minute. This is enough for a child, but a stronger machine would be needed for an adult patient.

The machine by-passes the heart, so it can rest. The flow of blood takes a detour through the tubes and into the double pump of the machine.

The blood also passes through a "bottle" containing oxygen, and absorbs a lot of the oxygen. This is similar to the function of the lungs, but the patient's lungs are not by-passed. An anesthetic machine keeps them going, so they will not collapse.

The operation on Laverne involved only 11 minutes of actual use of the machine, but the entire operation took about three hours.

Her trouble was that the blood from the heart's right ventricle was trying to get through a pulmonary valve which had narrowed down to the diameter of a match stick. Beyond this valve the blood went into the pulmonary artery, which leads into the lungs.

Because of the narrow opening, pressure had built up in the ventricle to 140 millimeters of mercury, seven times the normal amount. This pressure made it advisable to stop the heart long enough for the surgeons to fashion a better valve opening, a procedure which took eight minutes.

President Still Uncertain As To Campaign Role

To Be Candidate Or 'Worker in the Ranks,' GOP Dinners Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Either as a candidate or as a "worker in the ranks," President Eisenhower has promised to battle "with all my strength" for the policies of his administration.

Despite the uncertainty with which he viewed his role, Eisenhower's promise of support Friday night cheered more than 60,000 Republicans whose "Salute to Eisenhower" dinners up to $100 a plate raised an estimated five million dollars for national, state and local GOP campaign purposes.

Responding to demands that he run again, Eisenhower said "my future role remains undetermined, whether to be a candidate for your nomination or a worker in the ranks." But he promised his help in either case.

Arose Smiling, Hearty

The President arose smiling and outwardly hale and hearty to return the salute of 53 dinners throughout the country. But tears clouded his eyes as he acknowledged the tribute, saying "The heart is so full that it is indeed dangerous to say more than 'thank you.'"

Eisenhower told 1,700 diners in Washington and about 60,000 more over the country that his decision, when it is reached, will not be a selfish one.

"I could devoutly wish that there were some other method by which the American people could, under the circumstances, point out the path of my true duty," he said. "But it appears that this is a question that first I alone must answer."

The Republicans who cheered his entrance with Mrs. Eisenhower, gowned in purple and carrying American beauty red roses, left no doubt that they would like to help him make an affirmative decision.

Neither did the closed circuit television flashbacks, from Los Angeles to New York, leave any thought that the Republicans saluting his third anniversary in the White House have in mind any other candidate but Eisenhower.

Cheered By Statement

Some of them obviously were cheered by Eisenhower's statement that he hopes his decision when it comes, "will not unduly reflect concern for self."

These party members said they interpreted this as indicating the President will make the race if he finds he has reached what he called at Thursday's White House news conference "a reasonable level of strength" physically.

They bolstered this belief by citing the President's assertion that "many tasks still await action."

Significantly, perhaps, the President said that "the present and future are heavy with challenge, rich with opportunity."

Saying that his future role remains undetermined, he said his answer on a possible second term

Bible Words for Today

PSALM 46:10 "Be still, and know that I am God." (RSV)

During these days when all of us are worrying either about our own problems or about those of the world in which we live, it would be well for us to meditate upon the words of the Psalmist as God speaks through him to us saying, "Be still, and know that I am God." As we think of these words and their meaning for us a great sense of calm and peace comes into our lives. We are in God's good hands. He is the creator and sustainer of His universe. He cares for all of His children. He knows of our trials and tribulations before we tell Him about them. It is our privilege to put our lives into His hands knowing that He will do what is best for us.

Nathan Bahm Named Chairman Of City's Heart Fund Drive

Nathan Bahm

Nathan Bahm, of the Salem Junior Chamber of Commerce, has been designated chairman of the annual Heart Fund drive which will be conducted during February.

The Salem drive will be held by the Jaycees, in cooperation with the Youngstown Chapter of the National Heart Fund Assn. Assisting Bahm will be Jaycees Robert Ketch and Tom Roser. Bahm is associated with his father, Emil, in Bahm's Clothing store.

Heart-shaped containers for donations will be placed in various businesses in Salem during the month, tag nights will be conducted and door-to-door solicitations by Girl Scouts are planned, Bahm announced.

Bahm points out that heart disease is the No. 1 killer in America today. He says that "During the past year American scientists have struck a mortal blow at polio. We hope that with your continued support, a mortal, perhaps fatal blow, will be struck at heart disease."

Funds derived from the drive will be used for research on heart disease.

In addition part of the money will be spent on research on rheumatic fever, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries, which account for 90 per cent of heart failures. Part of the money also will be used, Bahm reports, for an information program to keep doctors, heart specialists and the public informed of the latest data on heart disease.

Ohio, 26 Other States Sign Aid Pacts

COLUMBUS, Ohio —Interstate Civil Defense pacts between Ohio and 26 other states will provide mutual help in case disaster strikes.

This was disclosed yesterday by Maj. Leo M. Kreber, Ohio Civil Defense director who outlined benefits in the mutual aid program.

Kreber said a pact had been executed with the state of New York and that amendments have been made to existing pacts with Oregon, Florida and West Virginia.

Revised agreements conform to the model interstate pact. Kreber said the pacts provide that each state will make available to other states whatever Civil Defense forces not already committed at home in the event of attack by enemy nations or natural disaster.

Kreber said Gov. Frank J. Lausche cited these advantages in the agreements:

It will be possible to get help if needed; the pacts establish the basis upon which the disaster forces would operate and be paid; and the pacts eliminate, for the emergency period, restrictions which normally prevent professional and technical personnel such as doctors and engineers from practicing in other states without a license.

AIRLINE SUED. CLEVELAND —A $75,000 damage suit was filed in Federal Court here yesterday against United Air Lines on behalf of the estate of Airman Thomas J. Campbell of Warren, Ohio.

Campbell, 18, was one of 66 persons killed in the crash of a United DC-4 plane near Laramie, Wyo., last Oct. 6. Attorney A. H. Dudnik filed the suit on behalf of the youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Campbell.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Work Solves Lots of Problems

The late Dr. Frank Crane was fond of telling a story about the days when horsedrawn wagons were more frequent than they are today. He was walking down the street and passed a place where a teamster had unhitched his horses to feed them.

Dr. Peale

Dr. Crane noticed that the heavy collar had been taken off one of the horses and that the horse's neck was very sore. He was concerned by this and went up to the teamster and asked, "Pretty hard, isn't it, to make a horse with a sore neck pull against that collar?"

"Yep," the teamster answered, "plum tough." And then he went on to make a remark that Dr. Crane never tired of quoting: "There wouldn't be much work done in this world, mister, if only horses and folks that are plum fit had to do it!"

I thought about Dr. Crane's story some time ago when I read about George Barnes in the newspapers. He's in the hat-cleaning business in Baltimore, but he has spent a good bit of time in Johns Hopkins Hospital during the past two years. When they sent him home last November, he was 73. Doctors had amputated his right leg because of congested blood vessels — his left one had been taken off for the same reason in 1944. They had also removed much of his stomach. And the surgeon had performed a major operation to relieve him of an aneurysm, a balloon-like swelling of a blood vessel.

HE CARRIES ON his work from a wheel chair now. "I don't see any reason why I should just sit around and collect relief checks and look at myself in the mirror," he cheerfully told a reporter. "I feel just as good as I've ever felt." He lives alone, but this doesn't bother him. "I can take care of my house O.K. and I cook all my meals myself."

Mr. Barnes says, "I like to read the Bible. You'd be surprised how that helps when you run into a problem." He doesn't want people to pity him as just an old man trying to keep busy. He is trying to do something constructive. "My experience might show people," he says, "that if they just try to do something, they can do it. But if you don't even try, you're whipped."

That, of course, is the spirit that gets things done in this world, whether they be little things, medium-sized things, or great things. Many of us are all too ready to lay our burdens down and allow others to shoulder them. We give up all too easily.

This is not only wrong spiritually and morally; it is also a mistake physically. As Dr. William D. Stroud of Philadelphia told a gerontology symposium, "It is better that the patient fill out his life with rewarding work rather than worried rest." It is surprising how much better we do when we "just try," as Mr. Barnes says.

OF COURSE, NO ONE will argue that seriously ill people should work. Obviously that is a matter for a doctor to decide in each individual case. But, by and large, intellectual and physical activity is a helpful thing, and those who keep active and alert to the very end of their days lead the most satisfying lives.

Nowadays, we hear much about occupational therapy as being a good cure for worried and troubled thoughts. Well do I recall when I began working with people, especially with reference to their emotional problems. A country doctor of the so-called old school (perhaps he was more up-to-date than we thought) said, "The cure for a broken heart or a troubled mind is often as simple as for a woman to mop a floor, or a man to chop wood." It's certainly worth trying. If things bother you, get busy at some useful activity. It solves lots of problems.

This is a time-tested philosophy. In the Book of Ecclesiastes we read: "There is nothing better for a man, that he should eat and drink, and that he should make his soul enjoy good in his labor."

Highland Christian

Rev. George Hampshire will speak at the 11 a.m. service Sunday in the Highland Christian Church. Sunday School at 10 a.m. will precede the worship service. Christian Endeavor will meet Sunday afternoon at 3.

ARMSTRONG AND NAIRN LINOLEUMS

Faith Outbound

This is a scene you see every Sunday . . . hundreds of men and women pouring out of our churches. What effect does it have on the life of our community?

There was more happiness in our streets this week . . . more sympathy and understanding . . . more kindness and helpfulness . . . more determination to attain the highest moral and spiritual ideals.

We won't see Utopia next week. Human nature is still human. Perfection is God's alone.

But crowded churches change many lives. Worship and prayer strengthen souls. The seed God plants never dies, if we are determined to cultivate it.

Come to Church next Sunday. And when you leave, you and our community will be richer because you were there.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Eisenhower Brought Unity

Many points of view on President Eisenhower's third anniversary in the White House are attractive.

But one is more attractive than any of the others because it deals with the cause of their attraction too. It concerns something basic to all of them.

To take this point of view, one must go back more than three years.

Eisenhower's backers for the Republican nomination in July, 1952, had ridden roughshod over the backers of Robert A. Taft. They had added boldly and recklessly to the political bitterness that was hurting confidence in the party system and in the federal government.

The Democrats had been too long in power in Washington. Harry Truman could not command support from his own party's majority in Congress.

Everything seemed to spring from or go back to partisanship. The American people were sick of it — and it had erupted anew in the Republican convention.

At that fateful instant, the bright, warm personality of Dwight Eisenhower saved the day. He said he would try to unite Americans, and he began promptly to unite the dissident factions of the Republican party. It was to be a hard and frustrating task, but he began it within minutes after his nomination to run for president — and it made a tremendous impression.

The promise of unity instead of bickering was the most powerful public promise made since Franklin D. Roosevelt said he would try and try again until he found something to move America out of the economic doldrums.

President Eisenhower's political future now is uncertain. But the greatest thing he has done so far is to restore a sense of unity to people who were wondering in 1952 if factionalism had become a changeless order in the United States, as it has in France.

He has revealed what it is like to have a chief executive trying to pull his fellow Americans closer together, instead of trying to force them further apart.

It has been his most important contribution in the last three years. It has set a presidential style that will be violated in the years ahead at the cost of the violator's prestige with the American people.

Someone Must Have Been Sick

A Census Bureau report on the work week says farmers and farm managers put in an average of 57.2 hours in mid-1955.

Before some of our farmer readers get red-necked, a few words about averages may be of assistance.

Averages are monstrosities spawned in the minds of bewitched people who think it reveals something to say the average income of John D. Rockefeller and Joe Blow is ten million dollars—four thousand for Joe and 19,006,000 dollars for John D.

The way these people figure an average work week of 57.2 hours for farmers in the middle of 1955 would be like this:

This is the time of the year when a farmer gets up at 4 a.m. and keeps going until he falls over in a state of exhaustion at 8 p.m. He puts seven of these 16-hour days together, with a little time off for church on Sunday—112 hours a week.

But he has a brother-in-law working with him who has been sick. The Census Bureau divides 112 hours, minus a little for church, between the farmer and his brother-in-law and comes up with the news their average work week was 57.2, because that is how it came out between the farmer going to church and the brother-in-law doing light chores when he was feeling well enough to hobble out of the house.

Averages are wonderful inventions when the idea is to fudge the facts.

Billy's On His Way

Newspaper editors have received a note from Billy Graham saying he has left for India and the Far East to try to build some good will for the United States with his presentation of Christianity.

Bulgarian and Khrushchev, he points out, were smart enough on this visit to go over the heads of Asian leaders and appeal to the masses. That is what Graham will try to do on his visit — and he frankly hopes his mission will get "sympathetic coverage" in the press.

It will get not only coverage but congratulations. If one thing has been made clear about building good will for the United States, it is the hopelessness of doing it with American counterparts of Bulgarian and Khrushchev.

Our best bet to win friends abroad the Billy Grahams, the Patchmo Armstrongs, the Jesse Owens and the Saint Four technicians. If Graham's sermons have only a tenth of the impact they have had in Europe and England, the United States will have built more good will than it could have hoped to buy with a billion dollars' worth of foreign aid.

Religion In And On The Job

God's Witnesses

By EUGENE CARR

Considerable concern is being expressed these days by professional churchmen as to whether the great upsurge of interest in religion now sweeping the country really means anything.

Numerous magazine and newspaper articles have dealt with this question in recent months. Religious leaders, scholars and theologians are discussing it from the pulpit and convention platform, and on radio and television. It seems to narrow down to—"Have people actually committed themselves to God, or are they merely seeking relief from their worldly troubles?"

Fears are expressed that the emphasis on religion today may be nothing more than a "popular movement," a follow-the-crowd psychology at work, and that the whole thing might fizzle out in time due to a lack of genuine dedication on the part of the individual churchgoer.

One commentator describes America's religious look as "sleek, bouncy, and well-fed," as though these were undesirable signs of spiritual health. Another views with alarm what he calls the tendency to accept faith in God simply as a necessary ingredient in a well-adjusted, integrated personality.

Meanwhile, millions of church members and lay church workers do not seem to be nearly so concerned over the question. They continue, week after week, to devote themselves—their time, their energy, and their money—to organized church programs and responsibilities that serve as a medium of expression for their faith.

The church layman is greater in number, percentage-wise to population, than any time in history.

More than half of them attend church regularly. They are spending an unprecedented amount on new and remodeled church buildings, and contributing more to church budgets and benevolence than ever before.

They are reading more religious books and periodicals, attending more religious movies, and tuning in more religious radio and TV broadcasts. Even the calendar makers tell us that calendars with religious pictures and theme lead all other requests.

Isn't this proof that people are gaining something from the religious atmosphere in which they spend so much of their time these days? Aren't they showing themselves to be susceptible to an influence that can lead to a deep and lasting dedication? Suppose they have turned to God, in the beginning, as an escape from the sordid and ugly things of life! Isn't that better than if they had not turned to God at all?

The director of a large layman's organization recently reported on a ten-day trip covering three states during which he met and talked with more than 2,000 men. He said, in effect—"Anyone discouraged or lacking in zeal should have come along on this trip. Clear eyed men, committed to the task of telling the Good News, give evidence of a new day and a new hope. One of the refreshing values was the way men are using their heads and their skills to be enthusiastic witnesses to their faith."

Isn't it conceivable there would come a time when mankind would accept God's Plan for him on this earth? This could be the time. This could be the place. It's a long-awaited challenge.

Benefits Outweigh Cost

'Pay-As-You-Go' Highway Network Recommended

The need for better highways—from "farm to market" roads to city expressways—is clearly apparent to highway users throughout the nation. And that, according to Albert Bradley, executive vice president of General Motors, means to most Americans — for our whole way of life is intimately geared to highway transportation.

"The inadequacy of most of our present highways is felt directly by millions of motorists confronted with frustrating, costly delays and hazards," Bradley said, at the opening of GM's 1956 Motorama. "And the public is coming to realize that this situation is far more than an annoying but minor by-product of our tremendous national growth."

Bradley, who is also chairman of the National Highway Users Conference, said: "There is no doubt that the President's recommendation has created widespread awareness that it is a major national problem."

"AS THE PRESIDENT recently told Congress, better highways are vital to the 'personal safety, the general prosperity, the national security of the American people!'" "The urgency of the situation is underscored by the fact that more and more traffic is competing for space on already overcrowded streets and highways. There are now nearly twice as many cars and trucks in the United States as there were 10 years ago. The total is expected to rise another 20 million by 1965!"

"We have been making some progress. Highway construction expenditures have risen encouragingly in recent years and many motorists are enjoying the experience of driving on the splendid modern-design highways recently completed."

"However, our limited mileage of modern roads is more a sample than a solution. The present rate of investment in new highways falls far short of established need. A joint federal-state study in 1954 showed that we should invest 101 billion dollars in new construction during the next 10 years, whereas expenditures on the current basis would total only 47 billion dollars."

"I USE THE WORD 'invest' advisedly, because that is precisely what money spent on highway improvement represents: An investment in our future."

"Highways are one of our great productive assets, capable of paying even bigger dividends in social and economic progress if they are made adequate to our demands for mobility. Recognition of this has prompted a tremendous surge of public interest in highway needs and an increasingly vocal demand for necessary action."

"Concurrently, there is encouraging evidence of a trend toward fuller agreement on the all-important issue of how to pay for modern highways. This issue is so complex — and the sums involved are so great — that there will probably never be full unanimity on this score, but the pressure of highway needs is encouraging an ever-greater disposition to accept financing formulas that are as equitable and sound as can reasonably be developed."

WHEREVER YOU DRIVE in the U.S., this reporter commented, you'll hear "Everybody wants good roads but nobody is willing to pay for them."

"True," said Bradley, "and that is not only a cliché but it's also unfounded. There is general awareness that good roads cost us less than poor ones. 'Adequate roads don't cost—They pay!'"

"There are also equally encouraging signs that most people aren't interested solely in the roads that happen to serve their own immediate needs. They are recognizing that the nation requires an integrated network of highways, with all portions developed to standards adequate for the traffic they must carry, to help assure the welfare of all the people."

"There are still issues to be resolved, both with respect to how to get the money and where to spend it, but the Congress should be able to devise a sound plan if the problem is approached realistically and with concern solely for the general public welfare."

"However the details may be worked out, certain things are now quite clear:

"FIRST, AN ACCELERATED highway construction program is desperately required and there is adequate justification—a real need, in fact—for greatly increased federal participation in financing it."

"Second, the federal program, while giving adequate attention to all roads embraced in the federal aid network, should also specifically assure improvement of the vital 40,000-mile interstate system to adequate standards as rapidly as is feasible."

"A sound 'pay as you go' financing plan appears to be the most practicable approach, with as equitable as possible an assessment of whatever additional taxes the Congress may consider necessary."

"Within the framework of these three principles," Bradley concluded, "Congress can devise a program that will be of incalculable value to the nation's future development."

Seaway Hitting Full Stride

By ALAN EMORY

St. Lawrence seaway operations will hit full stride this year, according to Lewis G. Castle, administrator of the Seaway Development Corporation. He said in an interview that by June or July he hoped to have all major seaway work contracted for.

"Our target date is still July, 1958," he pointed out.

The stocky, gray-haired seaway expert said that during 1956 negotiations and talks with Canada would bear increasingly on the subject of tolls to be charged.

Communities are beginning to plan for the advantages to be gleaned from the project, Castle said.

Public interest in the project continues to grow rapidly, with each day's mail bringing more queries from students, teachers, equipment firms, investment confabulators.

Castle said he hoped that members of the congressional public works and appropriations committees would visit the construction area and "take a look" at the work being done.

He was never a conformist. When he got fed up with the uncouth colonialism whose freedom he later helped to win, he went abroad and lived in England and France, where he was recognized as a great man while his fellow Americans still were sniping at his small frailties.

His maxims have been used to enforce drudgery on generations of early-risers and penny-pinchers, but he made a fortune in a hurry and lived it up in style the rest of his long life. He didn't believe in drudgery.

The founding fathers wouldn't trust him to help write the Constitution because they were afraid he might slip a joke into it, and he might have tried to, at that. When the Constitution was finished, he didn't think much of it, although he conceded it was the best of a bad bargain and could be doctored later.

To whatever extent he realized he was a big shot while he was alive, Ben Franklin never showed it. He never took himself seriously, a trait that maddened stuffed shirts, ax-grinders and Gloomys. Guess who were never happier than when moaning and groaning about the times and customs.

Throughout his uniquely useful and wide-ranging life, he had the knack of seeing himself and his contemporaries objectively, of keeping everything in perspective. No one ever accused Ben Franklin of being unable to see the forest for looking at the trees. He saw everything there was to see.

"The tourist boom is bound to come. It will increase more when the roads are better, but it is the key to the wide interest in this program. It was surprising last summer how many families went to Massena and Montreal. Hotels and motels are expanding, and there will be better accommodations."

Castle confessed that after his first few weeks in Washington the self-styled "country boy" had felt a little "frustrated." He knows his way around a lot better now, and plans intensive contacts with Congress in the year ahead to communicate the story of his agency.

While he said he tried to "both-er" the White House as little as possible, Castle noted that when he did talk seaway there "they seemed to know what was going on."

The former Duluth banker is not sorry he took the federal post, and he is particularly pleased that he has been able to keep his agency free of politics and political pressures so far.

His organization is a tightly budgeted affair, and signs are that it will stay that way.

Journey With Ben

By TRUMAN TWILL

Each of us can admire Benjamin Franklin in his own way during the year-long celebration of his birth on Jan. 17, 1706.

That is how Ben would have wanted it to be.

He was never a conformist. When he got fed up with the uncouth colonialism whose freedom he later helped to win, he went abroad and lived in England and France, where he was recognized as a great man while his fellow Americans still were sniping at his small frailties.

His maxims have been used to enforce drudgery on generations of early-risers and penny-pinchers, but he made a fortune in a hurry and lived it up in style the rest of his long life. He didn't believe in drudgery.

The founding fathers wouldn't trust him to help write the Constitution because they were afraid he might slip a joke into it, and he might have tried to, at that. When the Constitution was finished, he didn't think much of it, although he conceded it was the best of a bad bargain and could be doctored later.

To whatever extent he realized he was a big shot while he was alive, Ben Franklin never showed it. He never took himself seriously, a trait that maddened stuffed shirts, ax-grinders and Gloomys. Guess who were never happier than when moaning and groaning about the times and customs.

Throughout his uniquely useful and wide-ranging life, he had the knack of seeing himself and his contemporaries objectively, of keeping everything in perspective. No one ever accused Ben Franklin of being unable to see the forest for looking at the trees. He saw everything there was to see.

progress in the year ahead to communicate the story of his agency. While he said he tried to "both-er" the White House as little as possible, Castle noted that when he did talk seaway there "they seemed to know what was going on."

The former Duluth banker is not sorry he took the federal post, and he is particularly pleased that he has been able to keep his agency free of politics and political pressures so far.

His organization is a tightly budgeted affair, and signs are that it will stay that way.

He gave prestige to the American colonists in London or Paris, because he commanded respect for his own accomplishments. He did not have to stand on the non-existent dignity of a government that hadn't come into being and was not destined to have dignity for generations to come. Like Washington, Franklin had everything to lose.

The man was a wonderful blend of pepper and honey, sweet and sour, scholar and scallawag. His life and ideas were an affront to those who had taken it upon themselves to set up an absolute dictatorship of mealy-mouthed moralism in the American colonies—but he never will be forgotten and they never were remembered.

Among his accomplishments, which are so numerous he could have been in jurisdictional disputes with every union and professional society in the country if duplicated today, he was the first exponent of the kind of civilization that later became the trademark of America.

It is a kind of civilization in which a man may do as he pleases as long as he minds his own business while doing it and may go as far as his own wits can carry him.

They carried Ben Franklin a long way.

The most admirable thing about him in the year-long retrospect that is beginning this week is that it would have been a lark to have gone with him. There were no dull moments, and there was plenty of laughter—right up to the time when Ben called it a journey at the age of 84.

Few of the memorable lives of the past would have been fun; most of them were too grim.

Interest In Canal Revived

An Army engineers' report made 30 years ago on a possible canal to link Lake Michigan and Lake Erie has suddenly become popular again.

Rep. Crumpacker says that calls he has received for the report indicate a revival of interest in such a project as a result of the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The Indiana congressman has begun reading the yellowed pages of the old report to learn what the Army decided in the 1920's. He said the report was not encouraging; that the Army then held the project would not be practical since it would cost far more than the estimated good which would accrue to the public.

Demand for copies of the out-of-print document so far has not exceeded the supply. But Crumpacker said it would only be a matter of time until the few remaining copies are gone.

Chambers of Commerce in the area where such a canal might be built are the most prominent groups asking for the report.

The project, as originally contemplated, would have made use of the St. Joseph River channel for part of the way across lower Michigan. A ship canal, if built, would remove the necessity for vessels sailing through Lake Huron to get from Lake Michigan ports to Lake Erie.

Construction of the seaway, linking the Great Lakes with the Atlantic Ocean through the St. Lawrence River, might enhance the desirability of such a canal, as ocean commerce presumably would use it.

However, the exorbitant price tag which the Army said such a project would carry in the 1920's would probably be even bigger now, in Crumpacker's judgment. The original plan was for a waterway to accommodate vessels with eight-foot draft. Crumpacker said that present Great Lakes barges are of a deeper draft.

Once Over

Village Blacksmith, 1956 Model

Under a spreading chestnut tree
The village smithy stands;
The payment plans that bind him down
Are strong as iron bands;
(The smith has plenty troubles on His large and sinewy hands.)

II
His bills are plentiful and long,
He has a winter tan
Obtained through soft vacations on
A long time-payment plan;
(He cannot quite tell where he is—
And doubts he ever can.)

III
He hasn't shod a horse in years
Nor seen a horse, has he;
But he gets paid for shoeing 'em
By government decree;
And there are price supports upon
The horse-shoe industry.

IV
He has a station-wagon and
A ranch-house wide and strong
With TV set in every room
For drama, fun and song;
(One day he'll own 'em outright
If he ever lives that long.)

V
He goes to Europe on the cuff
And pays in fifteen years;
The chestnut tree sees little of
The smithy, it appears;
But in a chestnut blight the state
Will seed him nuts, my dears.

VI
He leaves someone to mind the shop
Beneath the chestnut tree;
But knows the guy won't run it much—
(He's got security);
But doesn't seem to see.

THIS IS NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK, and Americans seem to be celebrating it if it takes their last dime.

Prince Rainier who rules Monaco and Aristotle Onassis, Greek tycoon who owns the casino and the big hotels, hardly speak as they pass by.

Hialeah, which opened this week, has as its new head Gene Mori who already owns Tanager and Garden State. . . .

Not so many years ago, according to the stories heard, Mori, as a winter vacationist in Miami who had not yet hit the big money, got his first peek at Florida racing at the old Tropical park. Hialeah has a 300-foot addition to its clubhouse and many new de luxe touches. . . . Shudda Haddim sends us a postcard declaring that Mori has installed two-headed flamingoes and put vintage wine in the infield lagoons.

Walter Donovan, Mori's right-hand man in racing affairs, got his first touch of horse racing when, as a St. Petersburg attorney, he was named Florida State Racing Commissioner. . . . And he cleaned up Florida racing so thoroughly that political hatchet men got him, little dreaming that he would go on to become a top figure in racing in Florida, New Jersey and California.

GRACE KELLY'S mother wrote a newspaper series on her daughter's romance and Father Tucker also came through with an article or two. . . . Everybody's getting into the act.

A young woman who ignored 51 parking tickets in New York was fined $2,550. . . . It seems she left her car in the streets while attending Columbia. . . . Not while writing a treatise on "Obligations of Citizenship as Applied to Obedience to the Law," we trust.

Mildred Natwick was so superb on TV's "Blithe Spirit" that she looks like a natural for some regular airwave comedy program.

World's Biggest Power Shovel, With 90-Ton Bite, Goes to Work Uncovering Coal Seams

SIZE OF "THE MOUNTAINEER" is dramatized in this composite picture which compares the huge shovel with the Ohio State University Stadium at Columbus, and a standard one-cubic-yard shovel (arrow). The Mountaineer, 100 times the size of the standard power shovel, has a built-in, three-man elevator to carry its one operator to the controls.

THIS IS the huge platform on which the upper cab of the shovel rotates. Engineer (arrow) is examining six-foot opening for the hollow center pin, which houses the elevator. Shovel was built by the Marion, Ohio, Power Shovel Co.

The world's largest shovel, towering 147 feet and weighing 5½ million pounds, has just gone to work for the Hanna Coal Co. at Georgetown, Ohio. It can lift 250 tons (the equivalent of two switching locomotives) 100 feet in the air. Its 60-cubic-yard dipper picks up some 90 tons of dirt with each bite. Called "The Mountaineer," the huge shovel was built to strip earth and rock from coal seams that lie 90 feet underground. Largest shovels quote for the task. This one available before were inadequate 2½ million dollars and can handle some 13 million pounds of material each hour. It's powered by 16 electric motors, utilizing 4500 horsepower.

Pusin Scores 41 Points As Girard Trips Quakers, 69-62

Klein Paces Salem Attack

Sebring To Oppose Locals Here Tonight

By CARL NADRASY

The tall Girard Indians, or should we say center Charlie Pusin, scalped the Salem Quakers 69-62 on the Girard court last night to send the locals down to their third defeat in eight starts.

It was almost a one-man show for Girard as Pusin, 6 feet, 5 inches, meshed 41 of his team's 69 points and was unstoppable with his hook shots, tip-ins and great rebounding skill.

The Quakers have nothing to be ashamed of in losing the ball game because they played a good brand of heads-up basketball against the tallest outfit they have run up against this year.

Statistic-wise the Cabasmen should have taken the contest handily as they led in shooting accuracy from both the field and the foul line. From the field the locals hit on 23 of 66 shots for a 35.1 per cent—33.3 in the first half and 36.3 in the final half.

Girard took many more shots in the game as they only meshed 28 of 93 field goal attempts for a 31.0 per cent.

The hometowners also led in shooting accuracy from the foul stripe as they hooped 16 of 19 attempts for an amazing 84.2 per cent. Girard hit on 13 of 23 tries from the free throw line for a 56.5 per cent. Salem showed an uncanny foul shooting accuracy in the first half as they dumped in every one of their 10 foul tries.

SENIOR MATT KLEIN led the local attack with his four fielders and eight foul conversions for a total of 16 markers. Klein was one of the Salem highlights from the foul line, meshing all eight of the free throws he received.

Four other Quakers broke into the scoring column. Rich Hunter and Jack Alexander each garnered 14 points; Jim Meissner, 12; and Mark Fenton, six.

Besides Pusin's 19 fielders and three fouls for a total of 41 points, other Indian scoring came from Bill Killin with 12 markers, Lowell Owens, 10; Jack Ross, five; and Frank Paulich, one.

The game was the closest of the season throughout its entirety, even surpassing the recent tilt with Warren.

The lead in the first quarter shifted back and forth nine times before the locals made a last minute surge to take a quarter lead of 16-14. Fifteen seconds into the second period, Pusin tallied a fielder and the score was knotted for the fourth time in the 12 times the teams wound up tied during the contest.

In the second frame the Cabasmen tallied 16 points to 17 for the Indians to hold onto a meager 32-31 intermission lead.

PUSIN BEGAN to hit in the third period and the Indians pulled to a 52-48 lead. In the period, the Indians outscored the locals 21-16.

In the final stanza Salem made a desperate attempt to take the ball game when they began hitting with accuracy and outscored the Indians to tie the contest at 56-all with five minutes remaining in the tilt.

A quick fielder by forward Bill Killin, followed by a Salem two-point shot by Jim Meissner tied the game again at 58-all. The game was tied again for the last time as Pusin and Alexander meshed fielders respectively for a 60-all knot.

Center Pusin then dumped in two fast goals, one by a tip-in over the helpless Salem defenders, to send Girard in the lead to stay. Two fouls by Matt Klein made the margin 64-62 Girard, but two final fielders by Pusin and a foul conversion by guard Jack Ross tied the 69-62 Girard victory.

It was obvious during the contest that Cabas felt the loss of 6-2½ Bill Pauline. Pauline, who was unable to play due to an attack of influenza, possibly could have used his height to slow down the tall Pusin.

Ironically enough, it was just Tuesday night that Pusin had one of his worst nights as he scored only 10 points against Hubbard. The 41 points scored by him last night was an unofficial single-player record for the Girard gymnasium and also broke the all-time single-player scoring mark by a Girard player.

The two officials in the contest, John Holzbach of Youngstown and M. J. Maro of Campbell, drew booing from spectators of both sides. From the scorer's table it appeared that the game could have been called more closely. With only 25 fouls called all night (14 on Salem and 11 on Girard), the game became a race horse brand of cage play at times.

The loss for the Quakers give them a 5-3 record with nine more contests on the season schedule. The win gives Girard a 7-6 mark. Coach John Cabas and his boys will be trying for victory number six as they take on the Sebring

New Waterford Beats Bobcats For 11th Win

Coach Kenneth Wood's New Waterford Trojans got revenge from the Greenford Bobcats, the only team that has beaten them this year, as they trounced the Bobcats 81-60 on the New Waterford court last night. The Trojans are now 11-1 for the season and should increase their rating in the state this week considerably.

The New Waterford squad led throughout the contest with quarter leads of 16-13, 40-25 and 61-48. Forward Ronnie Seachrist paced the New Waterford attack with 10 fielders and six foul conversions for a total of 26 markers. Guard Dounce Brown and center Al Rupert garnered 25 and 11 points respectively for the Trojans. Guard Jack Brudery was high point getter for Greenford with 18 tallies.

The loss gives Greenford a 6-6 record in season play. New Waterford will play host to Springfield Twp. tonight, while Greenford will take on Lordstown at home Tuesday night.

Greenford turned the table in the preliminary Reserve contest as they Jaayees upended the New Waterford Reserves 81-60.

Top Track Teams To Compete Tonight

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the Villanovans sitting this one out, other top trackers get a chance to shine tonight in the ninth annual Evening Star games.

The Villanova team, led by Charlie Jenkins and Ron Delaney, ran off with the Philadelphia inquirer met Friday night as they did with the indoor season opener in Boston a week ago.

But midwinter vacations kept the Villanova runners at home, which should set up a repeat mile victory for Len Truex, the former Ohio State star now running for the U. S. Air Force.

Truex was a distant second in the slow mile at Philadelphia as Delaney won in 4:16.9.

The big men in last year's mile run here, Wes Santee of Kansas and Gunnar Nielsen of Denmark are not back. Santee is out with an injury and Nielsen did not make the American trip this year.

Adding spice to the Star games was the women's national indoor championships, with most of the lady Olympic hopefuls on view.

Perhaps the top single event schedules for tonight was the 70-yard high hurdles letting Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College, Rod Perry of Penn State and Ens. Jack Davis, formerly of Southern California.

Calhoun equalled the record for the 50-yard high hurdles in winning the Inquirer event Friday night. His time was 6 seconds flat.

The Star meet windup will find four of the finest college teams competing in the feature mile relay. They will represent the U.S. Air Force, New York University, Morgan State and Pitt.

The Star games have drawn upwards of 400 athletes to the National Guard Armory.

East Palestine Defeated By Lisbon, 63-59

The Lisbon Blue Devils chalked up their third victory of the season against seven losses as they downed East Palestine 63-59 last night.

Lisbon took a narrow 14-12 first period lead but increased their margin to 32-26 by halftime. At the end of the third stanza they had opened up an 8-point margin, 51-43, their biggest lead of the game. East Palestine cut the lead by outscoring Lisbon 16-12 in the last quarter, but the Blue Devils hung on for the victory.

Both teams tallied 25 field goals, with Lisbon's better accuracy at the foul line bringing them the win. The Blue Devils counted 13 points via fouls while the Bulldogs tallied 9 in this department.

George Ramsey paced the Lisbon scoring with 24 points, with Bob Early adding 19. Bob Gibson was high for the losers with 15. John Dunlap accounted for 12 points and Al Huston 10.

In the reserve game, East Palestine came out on top 48-44.

Turner Wins Split Decision Over LaBua

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Gil Turner looked toward Gene Fulmer again today, anxious to take on the Utah battler who was expected to provide the competition for the Philadelphia Friday night.

Instead, young Jackie LaBua filled in for the ill Fulmer and took his second beating from Turner in 37 days. Again, it was a split 10-round decision.

Turner's ring experience again was the major factor. The younger LaBua showed a willingness to mix it with the veteran and nearly every round of the fast-paced battle had a sparkling—and bloody—exchange.

Judge Paul Cummings scored it 54-41 and referee Barney Felix, 63-61, both for Turner. Judge Dick Fazio gave it to LaBua, 54-41. The Associated Press had LaBua on top 64.

Turner weighed 156, slightly less than his last fight with LaBua, who came in a bit heavier this time at 158.

Clippers Beat Canfield 70-64 In Thriller

The Columbiana Clippers defeated the Canfield Cardinals 70-64 last night, in a game that was a close thriller throughout.

Columbiana held one-point leads at the end of the first quarter and again at halftime, and at the close of the third period led by only three points.

The Clippers were heavily outscored from the field, but kept ahead in the game by means of foul-shooting accuracy. Canfield sank 28 field goals against 21 for the Clippers, but Columbiana dumped in 23 points from the foul line while Canfield could record only 8.

Jim Poulton and John Murphy led the way for Columbiana with 17 points each and Ken Warrick added 14 to the cause. Dick Baird was the big gun for Canfield with 26 of his team's points.

Columbiana now has won 6, dropping 5. Canfield has lost all 12 of their games.

In the reserve contest preliminary, Columbiana also came out on top, 49-39.

Hungary Cuts Winter Squad From 98 To 4

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—The most baffling mystery of the Winter Olympics is what is going on in the Hungarian winter sports world.

Sports conscious Hungary planned a major bid for recognition as a winter sports power.

Accommodations for 98 athletes were requested in the original entry telegram received four months ago. Numerically such a team would have ranked only below Russia and the United States.

Another telegram arrived a few weeks ago, slicing the squad to 24. Now a third one has arrived.

Hungary will send only four men. "Technical difficulties" claimed the Hungarian Olympic Committee.

What has happened in the Hungarian sports world to cause a change from a 98-man team to less than half the size of the team sent to the 1952 Winter Olympic in Helsinki by Hungary.

No one here knows. Every one wonders.

The oldest Olympic entrant to turn up so far is a Bavarian inn keeper named Sylvester Wackerle, who was 48 last Thursday. He's a bobsledder.

The youngest is Marika Killus, 12-year-old German figure skater who likes to play with dolls after practice.

The commonest name is Kristjansson, Iceland has four of them—Stefan, Einar, Bragi and Gisli. None are related.

One school of thought holds that the Winter Olympics never should be held at an alpine resort. We asked Per Olaf Aastrand, a world authority, the reason.

"Altitude," he explained. "At Stockholm a cross country skier uses about 50 liters of air every minute. Here at Cortina the consumption is 10 per cent greater."

Reserves Notch 7th Straight

Defeat Girard 69-60 In Tough Contest

Coach Karl Zellars' Salem Reserves met their toughest opponent of the season last night and had to come from behind in the second half but managed to register a 69-60 victory over the Girard Jayvees. It was Salem's seventh straight victory.

It marked the first game of the current campaign that the local reserves trailed at halftime when Girard's reserves lead 33-31 at the intermission.

Coach Zellars' boys had a hot first period as they made the first 10 points in the tilt on five shots and garnered 24 points to their opponents 14 in the quarter. But it was the direct opposite in the second stanza when Girard poured in 19 markers to seven for Salem to take the 33-31 intermission margin.

The Quaker Reserves found their lost accuracy in the third frame, outscoring the hosts 21-12 to take the period lead 52-45. Although Girard kept right on the heels of the locals in the final period after their star center Jack Housteau left the game via the foul route, Salem continued its third period brand of play to keep their season's record unblemished.

Jim Meissner led the Salem scoring with seven fielders and three fouls for a total of 17 points. Joe Bryan was close behind with 15 markers. Center Jack Housteau and guard Bill Forney led Girard's attack with 14 points each.

Other Salem scoring came from Ted Jackson with 12 points; John Sturgeon, 10; John Stephenson, eight; Darryl Adams, four; Richard Beall, two; and Bob Platt, one.

Tonight the Reserves will be seeking victory number eight when they meet the Sebring Jayvees on the local court.

Iowa Seeks To Keep In Range Of Illinois

By The Associated Press
Iowa's defending Big Ten basketball champions take to the road today in a pair of games which the Hawkeyes must win if they are to keep within range of front-running Illinois.

Illinois (4-0) takes time out for examinations and does not return to conference action until Jan. 30. Iowa will be at Michigan today in a nationally televised game and at Purdue Monday night.

The Hawkeyes (2-1) can hardly afford to lose either game while a double defeat would blast their title hopes beyond repair. Both Michigan and Purdue have fashioned 3-2 records in Big Ten play and are rugged on their home courts.

Two other Big Ten games are scheduled for tonight with Minnesota at Michigan State and Ohio State at Purdue. Minnesota and Michigan State will be battling to edge their way back into the first division while Ohio State (2-1) is tied with Iowa for second place and only a notch ahead of Purdue.

Limited action continues on Monday's program. The only game other than the Iowa-Purdue contest pits Northwestern against Ohio State at Columbus.

16 Rookies Seek Berths With Tigers

NEW YORK (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, whose prime needs are on outstanding relief pitcher, another catcher and a second baseman, may be able to fill those positions from among 16 newcomers who will seek to make the club at Lakeland, Fla., next spring.

The outstanding candidate for the No. 1 fireman role is Pete Wojciechowski, a 33-year-old righthander acquired from Montreal in a year-end deal. Three aspirants—J. W. Porter, Charles Lau and Walter Streuli—will vie for the No. 3 catching berth behind Frank House and Bob Wilson. Tom Sarna, the Sally League's all-star third baseman, may

Scandinavia's Long Ski Jumpers Again Shine

By STERLING SLAPPEY

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Scandinavia's heritage of producing the world's most stylish and long range ski jumpers appears as safe during the 1956 winter Olympic games as a snowball at the North Pole.

In five days of steady practice on classic "Italia" Hill for the games opening next Thursday no other jumper has shown himself to be in a class with Scandinavia's best.

The Russians crave to replace the Finns and Norwegians as the best jumping nation of the Nordic world. But the grim, never smiling

Soviets have yet to show a man who can handle himself in flight or touch down as gracefully as their little northern neighbors.

The Americans look great coming down the sloping chute from which the jumpers take off. The Yanks handle themselves well in flight and land lightly. But the Finns look even better and jump farther.

Each nation is permitted to enter only four men in the special jumping event scheduled for Feb. 5. But the Finns can't even decide which man to leave off among Antti Hyvarinen, Eino Kirjonen, Hemmo Silvonen, Auli Kallakorpi and Kalevi Karkinen.

Any man left off would have little trouble making any other national quartet with the possible exception of Norway. Norway's long leapers are not due at Cortina for another day or two. They include Arnfinn Bergman, 1952 Olympic champion.

Olav Ulland, Norwegian - born coach of the American jumpers from Seattle, said he expects jumps up to 86 meters—about 282 feet during the Olympics. Several Finnish jumpers thought 84 meters—275½ feet will win the title while more conservative observers said 80 meters—262½ feet would be good enough to win.

The Finns dominated Friday's practice leaps. The 27-year old Kallakorpi got off jumps of 262½ and 261 feet. And Kirjonen matched his teammate's second jump.

The best American effort was turned in by Art Devin, 33-year old Lake Placid, N. Y., motel owner. He cleared 243 feet. Rudolph Maki of Ishpeming, Mich., and Dick Rohol of Iron Mountain, Mich., were three feet shorter with their best jumps.

Mandish last year scored 31 points in a game, a school record at that time.

Larry Burkert with 11 and Bob Peet with 10 added to the Leetonia attack.

Leetonia pulled ahead 14-10 in the first quarter, then poured in 21 points in the second quarter to roll away to a 35-19 halftime lead.

Leetonia has dropped seven games this year and the squad's Tri-County record is 1-5.

In a preliminary game, the Poland reserves edged Leetonia's Jayvees, 38-36.

Salem Frosh Upend Stanton For 5th Win

The Salem Freshmen cage team, led by 14-year-old Woody Deitch's 33 points, overcame a 10-16 deficit after the first period of play to go on and defeat an Alliance Stanton Junior High squad 58-44 on the Stanton court yesterday afternoon.

Deitch in garnering his 33 markers performed a fantastic feat from the free throw line. During the first half, the 5-7 forward meshed 11 straight foul conversions before missing on his last attempt in the half. He then went on to sink six more straight free throws in the second half to give him 17 out of 18 fouls for the afternoon.

Besides the accurate foul shooting, Deitch also tallied eight fielders, mostly on drive-in shot, to establish his total of 33 markers. Also scoring high for the local Frosh was forward Clyde Marks with 18 points. Anderson and Riddle of Stanton were high scorers for their team with 12 points each.

After the first period deficit, the locals started to hit in the second stanza to take an intermission lead of 29-16. Salem really poured it on in the third frame, scoring 22 points to only 10 for Stanton, for a 51-36 margin going into the final period.

The victory was the fifth straight for the Salem Frosh, who have seven more contests on the season schedule.

Souhak Still Leads In Caliente Open

TIJUANA, Mex. (AP)—The Caliente Open Golf Tournament swung into the third round today and "Iron Mike" Souhak still had a tight grasp on the situation.

The young man with the shoulders of a wrestler was three strokes in front of the field with rounds of 65-71 behind him for a 36-hole score of 136.

His nearest rivals, at 139, were seasoned Tommy Bolt, who had a 70 and Ralph Blomquist, Glendale, Calif., club pro, who turned in a second round 72.

Tied at 140 and still a threat were two other seasoned tournament players, Oklahoma's Bo Winger, with 69-71, and Marty Fugol of Lemont, Ill., 71-69.

Glick Signs Contract With Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Gary Glick, an unheralded gridiron jack-of-all-trades who drew national attention after the Pittsburgh Steelers took him on their bonus pick, has signed a 1956 contract with the National Football League club.

The 195-pounder from Colorado A&M made a trip to Canada recently to discuss football with the Toronto Argonauts, and reportedly turned down a $12,000 offer.

Glick signed with the Steelers Friday at his home in LaPorte, Colo., after a talk with Steeler A&M Coach Herman Ball. Salary terms were not disclosed.

Glick's selection in the annual NFL draft came as quite a surprise. He is the first player from a small college ever tabbed a bonus choice since the system began in 1947.

His days at Colorado A&M were spent in relative obscurity. Fast and versatile, the 25-year-old Navy veteran performed at several back-field positions, notably quarterback, and was rated a good passer and place-kicker.

The Steelers reportedly chose Glick for his defensive talents, and it is expected he will be used to help plug their leaky secondary defense.

Previously, the Pittsburgh club signed their No. 1 and No. 2 draft choices, halfback Art Davis of Mississippi State, and tackle Joe Krupa of Purdue.

Rifle Hunt Planned At Shooting Club Range

A 22 caliber rifle match will be sponsored by the Salem Hunting Club Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at the club range.

The match will consist of 15 rounds of shooting for which merchandise prizes will be awarded to winners.

Husbands and wives will shoot as a team, and the club invites all marksmen to participate.

LITTLE LIZ

Obituary

Mrs. Abija Frantz

LISBON — Anna Marilla Frantz, 97, formerly of Lisbon, died Friday at 1:30 p.m. at St. Jacob's Evangelical and Reformed Home for the Aged at Upper Sandusky where she had been residing for seven months. Mrs. Frantz had been ill five years.

A former Lisbon resident, she was born Dec. 27, 1858, at Bunker Hill, Ind., the daughter of David and Phoebe Lamborn Hastings. She had resided in the Lisbon vicinity for 70 years.

Her husband, Abija, whom she married on Oct. 27, 1886, died May 4, 1910.

Active in St. Jacob's Church near Lisbon, Mrs. Frantz taught Sunday School there, and was a member of the Women's Guild of the church. A member of the Lisbon American Legion Auxiliary and Mt. Nebo Grange, she was the last surviving member of the Gold Star Mothers of World War I in the Lisbon area.

A graduate of State Normal School in Bunker Hill, she had been a school teacher there. On May 10, 1889 she helped organize the Classical Women's Missionary Society of Eastern Ohio.

Survivors include two sons, Carl D. of Salem, and Guy L. of Lisbon; two grandchildren, David H. Frantz of Columbus, formerly of Salem, and Mrs. Geraldine Work of Sandusky; six great-grandchildren; and a cousin, Newton Ramsey of Lisbon. A son, Hugh H. Frantz, died during World War I in 1918 and is buried at Mt. Mihel, France. A granddaughter, Mrs. Janet Boyer of Akron died in 1953.

Funeral services will be Monday at the Henry Funeral Home in Lisbon with Rev. Edwin Fager, pastor of the Evangelical and Reformed Church officiating. Interment will be in Lisbon Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Greenford Boy Scouts

Have Court Of Honor

GREENFORD — The Greenford Boy Scout Troop 166 met Monday at the Lutheran Church for a Court of Honor meeting with parents as guests.

The charter was presented to David Roller, chairman of the Scout committee, by John Dodge, Mahoning Valley scout executive. Tenderfoot badges were awarded to Larry Cook, Terry Coy, Edward Less, James Witmer, Frank Coy, and David Shobel, and second class badges were given to Michael Knisley, Donald Everson, Phillip Bixler, Ronald Williamson, John Coy, Horace Wilson, and Thomas Bailey.

Each mother was presented a recognition pin showing the rank of her son. Refreshments were served by the scout committee. Scout leader is Charles Maxwell Jr. and assistant Scout leaders are Francis Block and Urton Anderson. Regular meetings are Monday evenings at 7:30 at the Lutheran Church.

Great Books Group

Enrollment Still Open

Great Books Discussion Group will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in Salem Public Library to study Shakespeare's "King Lear."

Enrollment is still open for the second half of the year. Interested participants may register at the library for either a single meeting or the series.

The schedule for the remainder of the year is as follows: Feb. 6, Francis Bacon's "Novum Organum" Book I; Feb. 20, Locke's "Of Civil Government"; March 5, Voltaire "Candide"; March 19, Rousseau's "The Social Contract"; Books I and II; April 2, Gibbon's "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" (selections); April 16, Dostoyevsky's "The Brothers Karamazov" (selections); April 30, Freud's "The Origin and Development of Psychoanalysis."

Study Probation Plea

Of Court Defendant

LISBON — Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp ordered a probation investigation Friday for Richard Wolfe, 23, of East Liverpool, found guilty of burglary Nov. 1 by a Common Pleas Court jury. Wolfe made the probation request at a hearing yesterday before the judge, who set his bond at $1,000.

The East Liverpool man was indicted by the September Grand Jury for the breaking and entering of the J. L. Smith Grocery Store, 717 Dresden Ave., East Liverpool. He also was sentenced in September by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin to six months in the county jail for contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old girl.

Ohio Native To Play

Pro Football In Canada

WINNIPEG (AP)—Calvin Jones, 22-year old guard and captain of the University of Iowa football team last season, has signed to play with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of Canadian Football League, the club said today.

The Bombers are coached by Al Sherman, former assistant coach of the New York Giants of the National Football League.

Jones is from Steubenville, Ohio.

WATER RATES TO GAIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state utilities commission says the Ohio Pure Water Co. can raise its rates by $1.50 a month. The commission authorized the increase yesterday, provided the new revenue is set aside for improvements demanded by the state health department.

New Riots Grip Bombay State

Demonstrators Battle Police, Burn Buildings

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Rioting erupted anew in Bombay State today and threatened to spread to other parts of the country as protests mounted against Prime Minister Nehru's plan to redraw the map of India.

Angry demonstrators battled police and put the torch to big cotton warehouses in the scarred city of Bombay. Reports of fresh violence came from other parts of the state in the sixth straight day of disorder.

Word of disturbances also came from the States of West Bengal, Orissa and Bihar where demonstrators, apparently aroused by the Bombay riots, began staging their own protests against Nehru's reorganization plans.

The Bombay crisis stemmed from the government's intent to split the state into three parts: The Marathi-speaking south, the Gujarati-speaking north and bilingual Bombay City under federal control.

Party Faces Dilemma

Nehru's ruling Congress party faces a dilemma over Marathi demands for including of Bombay City in the Marathi-speaking state.

About half the city's three million people are Marathas.

Some observers believe the party will lose its long-time stronghold of Bombay unless Nehru yields to the demands.

Nehru's top foreign policy adviser, V. K. Krishna Menon, arrived in Bombay en route to New Delhi from U.N. headquarters in New York.

Political sources said Menon probably will discuss the situation with Bombay City officials.

Police declared the riot situation was improving in Bombay City. But before noon today they had counted two new dead raising the official toll to 51. Some observers said the actual count may be double the official tally.

Eisenhower

bid "will be forthcoming as quickly as it is firmly fixed in my mind." Almost without exception the Republican speakers at dinners across the country stressed a "peace and prosperity" theme, to which they added pledges of efforts to raise the income of the farmers.

They said the nation's defenses are in excellent shape and defended Eisenhower's foreign policies as aimed at promoting peace.

Some of the speakers compared Eisenhower with Washington or Lincoln or Benjamin Franklin.

Turned From Socialism

Most said, as Secretary of Interior McKay put it at Casper, Wyo., that the administration had turned the country "free from the path toward socialism."

Eisenhower himself appeared to be more frank than most of the GOP orators in describing the current world situation as an "uneasy peace."

He said in this connection that his administration has made certain that "our defenses are alert and strong; that our partnerships with others are based on deep friendships and common great purposes; that gradually the truth of our nation's peaceful goals and our respects for the rights of others is brought to all peoples of the earth."

4-H Leaders Plan

Meeting For Feb. 16

LISBON — Members of the Columbiana County 4-H Youth Leadership Group will be guests Thursday, Feb. 16, at 8 p.m. at a meeting of the County 4-H Junior Leadership Group at Lisbon Grange hall.

The junior leaders discussed a possible merger with 4-H clubs with a similar purpose but decided to consider it further when they met Thursday night at the grange. They also viewed three movies during the recreation period. Eleven members attended.

Brown, who also installed the officers.

In the annual report Capt. Brown told the board that 73 youth were sent from the area to the Army Camp at Mentor and that the institution of an annual meeting has been inaugurated by the advisory board to acquaint Salem citizenry with Salvation Army work.

Sixty-eight decision for Christian service were registered when Major Lyell Rader visited Salem, Capt. Brown noted. The highest amount of donations given by the local corps to missions was recorded in the total of $1,608.65 in 1955, she said; and East Sunday, 1955, represented a record attendance in Sunday School of 102 and record offering of $165.

Totals of 72 families, 415 individuals and 193 children were aided during Christmas including service from the SA toy shop, Mrs. Godie Schwartz, welfare chairman, explained in her Christmas activities report. The League of Mercy group distributed remembrances to county home patients; city hospitals and rest homes, and county jail inmates, totalling 445 persons.

Mrs. Schwartz also said $3,542.06 was raised through Christmas kettles and mail appeals.

Lee B. Vincent gave the invocation and Rev. Carter presented the benediction at yesterday's meeting.

In other business, Miller appointed a station wagon committee which is comprised of Harold Smith, chairman; E. M. Stephenson and Curtis Vaughan.

Others at the meeting were Gene Young, Mrs. Vance McBane, Charles Haldi, Ray Pearce, George Braund, Curtis Vaughan, Carl Willman, Lee Vincent, C. W. Kaminsky, Rev. Latent Carter, Byron Maxson and Harold Smith.

that "the aggressor knows, at last, that if he starts a conquest he will be opposed by overwhelming force." Vice President Nixon took the same tack in Chicago.

In Boston, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said today the United States has been put in a position where "the trump cards" of its diplomacy "are all threats of atomic war."

Kefauver, who seeks the Democratic presidential nomination, said a "few more blunders" like Dulles' "prink of war" interview and he "will have outlived his usefulness."

Nixon, in his Chicago talk, replied to Adlai Stevenson's recent statement that Dulles seemed willing to play "Russian roulette" with America's fate through a "brink of war" policy.

He said Stevenson, Democratic presidential aspirant, offers nothing except a return to "the Truman-Acheson policy (that) got us into war."

Foreign policy was the main subject, too, of a "Salute to Eisenhower" talk at Palm Beach, Fla., by Senate Republican leader Knowland of California.

Knowland, a likely presidential candidate if Eisenhower doesn't run, did not refer to the President directly during his speech. He merely spoke of the record of the "Eisenhower Republican administration."

Vocations Day At Salem High School Scheduled Feb. 15

A Vocations Day to inform Salem High School students of requirements and possibilities of various job opportunities is being planned jointly by the Hi-Tri and the Student Council of Salem High for Feb. 15.

Joint committees from the two groups are headed by Charles Probert and Marilyn Mallory.

Included on the committee are Kathleen Baker, Marilyn Lipp, Elaine Moffett, Barbara Tausch, Marie Lou Hannay, Marilyn Schramm, Bobbi Blount, Kay Lutsch, Barbara Schebler, Rita Joseph, Linda Tame, Marsha Fleischer, Joyce Leibhart, Barbara Shepard, Donna Fronk, Marie Wison, Virginia Lane, Karen Zeigler, Helen Potter, Bobbie Wilms, Sandy Gray, Cora Needham, Shirley Gathers, Irene Hall, Marilyn Kloos, Doris Shoop, Barbara Cobourn, Judy Fisher and Barbara Erath.

Sixty-eight senior youth will participate in the Ohio General Scholarship test next Saturday at the high school. Five subject sections are included in the tests open for any senior in the upper 40 percent of the class.

Sixty-four Salem High School artists are planning to enter the regional art exhibition at Akron, according to Mrs. Jean Bisset, art instructor. Deadline for entries is Jan. 28, and awards are gold achievement keys and certificates of merit. All key-winning exhibits will be judged nationally at the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh.

Debaters Are Busy

Four Salem High debaters are in Canton today debating on the subject of increased government aid to high school students qualifying for a college education. The debaters are Dick Corso, Ben Barrett, Bill Jacobson, and Steve Waid. The team will journey to Niles Feb. 11, vying with students from 20 schools.

Winners of the district contest the latter part of February will qualify for the state contest in March at Ohio State University.

Senior class stationery in accordance with June commencement arrangements has been selected by a committee comprised of Evie Copacia, Dick Copcock, Matt Klein, Carolyn Hartman, Mary Mercer, Miltie Theiss, and class officers Dick Hunter, Bill Bennett and Nettie Harris.

William Jermolenko has been elected Chorister of the Year by the Robed Chorus at Salem High School. Jermolenko, born in Poland, came to the United States in 1950 where he attended United States High School prior to coming to Salem High School. Active in the German Club, track, the Youth-for-Christ Club, Jermolenko has participated in football both his freshman and senior years.

Eight Salem High School bandmen are participating in the annual high school clinic at Canal Fulton today under the baton of Philip J. Lang of New York City, composer, conductor and arranger.

The bandmen are Meridith Livingston, Nick Costa, Sandra Gray, Martha Dougherty, Sandy DeJone, Howard Pardee, Diana Crowe and Tommy Althouse.

YOUNG DRIVER FINED

A 17-year-old Hanoverton youth, arrested Jan. 7 by the Salem State Highway Patrol for failure to stop within the assured clear distance, was fined $15 Thursday by Judge Louis Tobin of the Juvenile Court.

ARRESTED IN LISBON

LISBON — Leroy Williams of Grindstone, Pa., was arrested by village police this morning at 2:45 on East Lincoln Way for driving while intoxicated. Williams' case will be heard before Mayor Wilbur Warren late today.
